

WORRIES

A worry is a feeling of unease, fear or nervousness when you start to think about unpleasant things. It is a type of thinking, often about something that might happen in the future and it leaves you feeling frightened, nervous or anxious. Some people call worries, anxiety or stress.

People that worry a lot often feel very nervous about the potential dangers of what could or might happen in certain situations.

A worry can be a specific thought that makes you feel nervous, such as "what if I make a mistake during my drama play and everyone laughs at me", or it can be a more general feeling that you get, such as getting butterflies in your tummy or feeling sick even though your not actually sick.

A worry is a normal feeling to have and it can in fact serve us well in several situations. For example, feeling worried about a math test can help us study more or feeling worried about a sports game can actually help you prepare better and even perform well. However, when we worry too much and it starts to interfere with things in our everyday life, then it is not good, and we need some special tools and tips to help us overcome our worried feelings.

Everybody experiences worries, however if you are starting to feel worried more often or if you can't seem to stop thinking about your worry and it is leaving you feeling upset, then this mini book is going to help you manage your worries so that they don't bother you anymore.

Just move through this booklet at your own pace, remember to listen to your body and please speak up if you are feeling uncomfortable about any of your feelings, because talking always helps.

IDENTIFYING PHYSICAL SYMPTOMS

Everybody's body will physically respond to anxiety in many different ways. But some common physical symptoms are shown below.

Close your eyes. Take a deep breath in through your nose, and out through your mouth. Starting with the top of your head, become aware of how your body feels. Slowly move down your body, noticing how each body part feels, down to your toes. Make a note of any areas of discomfort on the body below.

PROS AND CONS

The Pros and Cons skill can help individuals respond to difficult situations and feelings in a more effective way.

Naturally, many people use pros and cons to assess situations and behavior, such as whether or not they should choose to proceed with something. However, the pros and cons is a little different as this skill also assess the pros and cons of tolerating vs not tolerating distress (coping vs not coping). For example, imagine that your natural urge or behavior was to verbally speak up and give your friend a piece of your mind because they said something that was very upsetting to you. The comment said, made you upset and hurtful experiences and feelings from your past were re triggered. Of course, you could yell and scream as you normally would, or you could sit with the uncomfortable feeling, ride the feeling wave and talk yourself through some effective coping skills. Thinking about the consequences of tolerating versus not tolerating this distress can help you make more positive choices that align with your long term goals.

HOW TO DO IT

1 WHAT IS THE URGE OR BEHAVIOR THAT YOU ARE TRYING TO AVOID?

2 EXAMINE THE PROS AND CONS OF ACTING ON THE URGE/BEHAVIOR VS NOT ACTING ON IT. CONSIDER WHAT HAS HAPPENED IN THE PAST WHEN YOU ACTED ON YOUR URGE.

3 LOOK AT THE ADVANTAGES & DISADVANTAGES (OR PROS AND CONS) FOR EACH OPTION. CONSIDER YOUR VALUES AND LONG TERM GOALS.

DECATASTROPHIZING

Cognitive distortions are thinking styles that our mind uses to convince us of one thing, when in reality it's completely untrue. The inaccurate thoughts are used to reinforce negative thinking patterns.

They are biased perspectives we take on unknowingly and reinforce over time.

CATASTROPHIZING

Only seeing the worst possible outcome of an event or situation and then deciding that if this outcome does happen, then the results will be a disaster.

Worries become escalated and thoughts become exaggerated.

For example, "If I fail this test, I won't be able to pass school, and I will never succeed in life."

WHEN YOU START TO QUESTION YOUR WORRIES, YOU CAN START TO BREAK DOWN THE COGNITIVE DISTORTION.

What am I worried about?

When I think about all the evidence and my past experiences, how likely is it that this worry will actually come true?

If my worry does come true, what is the worst possible outcome?

If my worry does come true, what is likely to happen? How will it affect me?

Will this worry matter tomorrow, next week, in a month or even in a year's time?

Distress tolerance skill

S.T.O.P

STOP

Interrupt your negative thinking with the command STOP! and pause with what you were doing.

TAKE A BREATH

Practice some deep breathing techniques to slow your heart rate down.

OBSERVE

Observe your thoughts, feelings and behavior. How does your body feel?

PROCEED

Purposefully and mindfully proceed with your next activity, one step at a time.

COGNITIVE DISTORTIONS

Mental Filter

Only paying attention to some types of evidence.
Focusing on your failures while avoiding to see your success.

Catastrophising

Only seeing the worst possible outcome of an event or situation. Worries become escalated and thoughts become exaggerated.

Jumping to conclusions

Assuming that you know what other people are thinking.
Predicting the future.

Overgeneralising

The process of concluding that just because something happened to you once before, it will occur over and over again. It is negative thinking based on only 1 or 2 experiences.

Emotional Reasoning

Believing that just because you feel a certain way then justifying that your thoughts must then be true.

Black and White

Seeing things as either good or bad, right or wrong or all or nothing. It fails to see the whole picture and by only seeing black or white you ignore the middle ground, possible the more reasonable ground.

Labelling

Putting labels on yourself and others.

- "I'm unloveable"
- "They are an idiot"

Should Statements

Believing that things should be a certain way. Using 'should', 'must' or 'ought' statements directed at yourself. This thinking results in feelings of guilt, shame and self loathing.

Blaming

Placing the blame on other people instead of owning up to your mistakes or sharing the responsibility. Taking on the victim mentality.

Personalisation

Taking things personally and thinking that what other people do is a result of your own actions. You may blame yourself for things that were totally out of your control.

COGNITIVE RESTRUCTURING

CATCH AND RESTRUCTURE YOUR THOUGHTS

Our thoughts control how we feel about ourselves. Negative thoughts make us feel down whilst positive thoughts make us feel good. Sometimes our negative thoughts are so engrained in us and they can happen automatically. But we can still make a conscious effort to reframe our thinking.

TRIGGER/EVENT - WHAT HAPPENED	AUTOMATIC THOUGHT	NEW THOUGHT

ANXIETY TRIGGERS

CRITICAL THINKING

Who benefits or suffers?
Who should be consulted?

WHAT

What are the strengths and weaknesses?
What can be done for a positive change?

WHERE

Where can I get more information?
Where can I get more assistance?
Where is the greatest need for change?

WHEN

When will this be a problem in the future?
When is it time to take action?
When will I know that the problem has gone?

WHY

Why is this a problem?
Why is it relevant to me?
Why is there a need for change?

HOW

How can change occur?
How can success be maintained?
How does this thought harm me?

BELIEF-O-METER

REMEMBER THAT JUST BECAUSE YOU HAVE A THOUGHT, DOESN'T MEAN YOU HAVE TO BELIEVE IT. THOUGHTS CAN COME AND GO, BUT WHEN YOU FEEL YOURSELF GETTING STUCK ON AN ANXIOUS THOUGHT, JUST RATE HOW MUCH YOU ACTUALLY BELIEVE IT TO BE TRUE.

PLACE YOUR ANXIOUS THOUGHT IN THE BUBBLE BELOW AND RATE IT 1 - 4 OF HOW MUCH YOU BELIEVE IT.

1 - NOT AT ALL

2 - A LITTLE BIT

3 - MOSTLY TRUE

4 - VERY TRUE

REFRAMING THOUGHTS

Our thoughts determine our behaviour, therefore it is important to have positive thoughts. Try and change the negative thinking into more positive productive thinking.

People might look at me because they like my outfit
